We have already called attention, says the Epogus, to the culpable facility with which the municipal authorities at Marseilles were allowing passengers from Alexandria to land without performing quarantee. We not learn that were caused challen have from Alexandria to land without performing quaran-tine. We now learn that some cases of choiera have occurred at Marseilles. If we revert to this subject, the reason is to show what a strange course is taken by the manicipality of that port to protect the inhabitants from contagion. On the arrival of vessels in the port the passengers are allowed to land, and the ships are then sent to perform quarantie. There is no room for astonishment that with such measures of pregantion the choiers should have appeared at Marseilles.

In a letter from Mr. Davis, dated the 15th inst., to Mr. Gillett, he says:

Mr. Davis requests Mr. Gillett to have a conference with Mr. Charles O'Conor, his only other counsel, so that they may be prepared for the trial whenever it may be brought on, with as little delay as the nature

Washington, Tuesday, Aug. 22, 1865.

The motion to quash the charges and specifiedions atteinst Capt. Wirz, made by the defendant's coansel, was argued principally by Judge Hughes, who ontended that they were too general and uncertain,

The Commission overruled the motion, and the prisoner then pleaded "Net gullty" to the charges against

Col. Chipman, the Judge-Advocate, to-day suggested that the prisoner be remanded to the Old Capitel, and that the Court now adjourn.

In this the Court, without a formal vote, nequiesced. Judge Hughes wished to know to what time the Court had adjourned.

Col. Chipman replied that he would notify counsel of the reassembling of the Court, and then requested the The following Constitutional Amendment has witnesses in attendance to give information as to where they resided, and instructed them not to leave the city
